

Activity 1: Plan your debate against mega-farms

Choose which two of the points below are the strongest and tick the boxes.

Growing free-range and organic chickens requires a lot of space, whereas intensive farms typically have about 15 chickens per square metre, about the area of an A4 sheet of paper per bird.

Diseases are more likely to spread because animals are kept in cramped conditions.

Local communities say that mega-farms produce foul smells.

Think about the lesson you've just had and add two more of your own ideas:

Look at the points below that some of your 'for' classmates may argue. Write a sentence deciding how you would oppose their point:

Laws regulate mega-farms so they can't be harmful.

It keeps food cheap for consumers. Lots of people can't afford to buy organic and free-range food.
